

Turning Points in American History

Places as Complex Texts:

Professional Development to address Common Core Standards

Thursday & Friday, October 4 & 5, 2012

8:30-4:30 Winooski, VT

No cost for Vermont Educators

Register by September 21, 2012!

Amy Demarest

Curriculum Coach/Place-based Educator at Our Curriculum Matters

<http://www.ourcurriculummatters.com>

Explore rich content and issues of social justice within the natural and built communities of Winooski.

This program offers an opportunity to explore the stories of an historic mill, an urban setting, a riverside, and a rich gathering of cultures in Winooski, Vermont. Educators work collaboratively to examine how to bring these stories to students in all schools to make learning relevant, useful, and worthwhile. Examination of artifacts, narratives, maps -- and the local landscape -- introduces teachers to a variety of ways they can reframe learning in communities outside their classrooms.

Register online at turningpointsinamericanhistory.org

Contact wendy@turningpointsinamericanhistory.org for more information